Now you will find Shi'as of African origin in more than a dozen African countries. Forty years ago the scene was different. In 1964, you could have travelled from Somalia to Madagascar and from Tanzania to Nigeria without finding a single African Shi'a in Sub-Saharan Africa. It all began when the Bilal Muslim Mission was established on 25th December, 1964 to propagate the True Islam in Africa.

A man wearing a white turban and a white robe is seated in a dark, textured environment. He is holding an open book and appears to be reading. To his left, a small, glowing lamp provides light. The background is dark and textured, possibly a wall or a cave. The overall mood is quiet and contemplative.
